SECTION A. BACKGROUND

The Rhode Island Department of Corrections (RIDOC) mission is to contribute to public safety by maintaining a balanced correctional system of institutional and community programs that provide a range of custodial options, supervision and rehabilitative services in order to facilitate successful offender reentry into the community upon release. Rhode Island is one of six states that have a unified corrections system, incorporating the jail and state prison into one Department. This centralized, comprehensive correctional system for men and women is located on the Pastore Complex in Cranston, Rhode Island. There are approximately 2,400 sentenced and awaiting trial incarcerated individuals housed in six facilities on a one-mile square complex. Facilities include the State's only jail for pretrial detainees, four sentenced male facilities and one for incarcerated women.

The RIDOC has approximately 1,000 staff working in secured facilities. The RIDOC will typically hold two (2) Correctional Officer Recruit training classes per year with an average participation of 35.
